Trust Your Ears

Wilma Cozart Fine, lead producer of the Mercury Living Presence catalog during the 1950s and 1960s, conducted her professional career in the recording industry according to this simple philosophy: "Trust your ears." Wilma's ability to remember the sound she heard at a recording venue was legendary. She became remarkably proficient at judging a recording's verisimilitude to the live musicians. Her first goal was always to preserve the sound of a performance's "Living Presence"—capturing the event as she heard it in the concert hall.

She worked closely with her husband, recording industry pioneer C. Robert (Bob) Fine. He provided his music-driven engineering expertise and offered a constant stream of innovations in equipment and techniques. Together, they set out to tape a series of classical recordings that were as closely faithful to the original sound as the technology allowed. Wilma produced over 200 classical records, many of which are still considered references for lifelike music reproduction.

When it came time to remaster the Mercury Living Presence catalog for CD, she brought the same exacting standards to this new media as she demanded when producing the analog originals. As Wilma considered the equipment she'd use to convert the analog master tapes to digital, she eschewed products used by most engineers and producers of the time and searched for a better solution. After evaluating several alternatives, she ultimately chose the then-new dCS 900 for its high resolution, musicality, flexibility, and unique ability to produce 24-bit files—technology dCS pioneered.

Now, as part of the 70th Anniversary of the Mercury Living Presence label's inception, Decca Records has released the entire digital catalog to the major streaming services, allowing more music lovers than ever to access and enjoy Wilma Cozart Fine's legacy of vibrant, timeless classical music, lovingly recorded.

Celebrating the 70th Anniversary of the first Mercury Living Presence Recording. Entire Digital Catalog on all major streaming platforms soon. Visit dCSaudio.com for more information and details on upcoming events.

Publishers Letter

ssue 100 was a milestone for a lot of reasons, but oddly enough it felt like my 50th birthday. Before I was 50 years old, I used to think, "I'm might live to be 100, and if so, my life still isn't half over." But once the big 5-0 hit, I'd think to myself, "I'm not going to live to be 101, so it's probably downhill from here."

My running joke with people when I'm getting coffee, buying car parts, or doing anything revolving customer service and they say, "Is there anything else I can do for you?" I always say "Make me 50 again." I'm not greedy. As the digital ink dries on issue 110, I feel the same way. I'm not going to be here for issue 200.

But it would be fun if someone did keep it going. Weird.

Moving right along with our usual columns, it's awards time again. Wow, the year always goes by fast, and for some reason, the pace of 2021 has felt hyper accelerated. Even more than normal. No travel, no trade shows, yet we've been busier than ever. So it's time to make the agonizing choices of what products flames shine a little bit brighter than the rest. I try hard to bring you great possibilities, so it's always tough to narrow it down to the ones that stand out that much further.

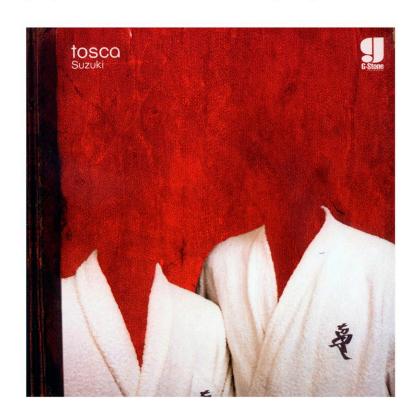

When I started TONE back in 2005, I vowed I would not allow a component in our pages unless I would write a check for it myself. I can happily say that I've stayed true to that mantra. I hope you enjoy (and approve of) the choices we've made.

Sorry this is a bit of a short note, but it's holiday time, and I'm a little bit of a Grinch. And you thought all the bright lime green accents were a coincidence! Also, that's why I handed out a few more awards this year...

As always, stay safe, my friends. Here's to 2022.

B ig thanks to coffee buddy and TONE reader Kerry Craig for some of his favorite electronica tracks. A few of these will give your subwoofer a workout. Pour a cup and get ready.

Introducing The New

SERIE T/x

Faster. Higher output. Deeper bass. Updated modern styling led to improvements in stiffness of construction that can be heard and felt from movies to music. Still affordable, boasting extremely reliable amplifiers, brilliant drivers and our renowned filters. Because in our pursuit of perfect sound, we focus only on one thing, the perfect subwoofer.

Dynaco Stereo 400 (and 410)

The big solid-state amp you could build.

$100-$1,000 (current market price)

In the early 70s as speakers got increasingly smaller and less efficient, (not to mention high power output transistors were getting more available) high powered solid-state amplifiers started enjoying a rise in popularity that has continued to this day.

There were a few choices back then, the Phase Linear 700, and later the Phase Linear 400 are a couple that instantly come to mind. David Hafler, the mind behind Dynaco's legendary tube components did not design this one, that task went to another legendary audio designer, Jim Bongiorno. He would later go on to Great American Sound (Ampzilla) and later on, Sumo. Near the end of his life in 2013, he would bring Ampzilla back.

The Stereo 400 hit the market in 1972. You could purchase an assembled version for $599, which just about $4,000 in today's currency. Those wanting to save a few bucks, and enjoy the pride of building it themselves could save a cool $150 by building their own Stereo 400. An additional $100 put the Stereo 416 in your hifi rack, and this amplifier was essentially similar, but had double the number of output transistors. The 416 had turbo cool (for the day) LED output indicators, and the 400 had none, but it could be upgraded with a "meter kit" for another $79.95.

The Stereo 400 was pretty beefy, at 53 pounds. Stereo Review's Julian Hirsch bench tested the Stereo 400, measuring 248 Watts per channel into an 8-ohm load and 352 Watts per channel into 4-ohms. Nothing like the massive solid-state amps of today, doubling all the way down to 2-ohm loads, but still very powerful.

With high power came the ability to easily destroy speakers, and when high powered solid-state amplifiers were driven to clipping back then, tweeters went right out the door. I even saw a customer in the hifi shop where I was employed, bring a JBL L-100 in with the woofer cone frozen in the out position. The customer remarked, "I was just playing it. I don't know what happened." When asked what amplifier was used, "One of those dynamo amps." Hmmm

As high power was a fairly new concept for the time, one of the primary features of the Dynaco Stereo 400 was its Dynaguard power limiting system. This depended on the PC-29 Dynaguard board that held the protection circuit and a pair of 15 amp relays. This is probably the weakest link on what is otherwise a robust amplifier.

When these amplifiers were new, you could buy the Dynaco 410 version, with no output level controls, meters, or Dynaguard protection for $399. Or, as they said in the advertisements, "under a dollar a watt!" Woo hoo.

Chances are if you have a non-working Stereo 400, the Dynaguard circuitry is the problem, and the nearly 50 year old power supply capacitors will need to be replaced as well. If they haven't failed yet, they will. A number of vendors on Ebay will sell you an upgrade kit for under $200, and this will probably get you most of the way there. The relays are tough to find (but not impossible) and the level controls on the front panel will either need major cleaning, replacement, or even elimination.

Enjoy the Experience

Pass Laboratories 13395 New Airport Rd. Ste G., Auburn, CA 95602 (530) 878-5350 - www.passlabs.com

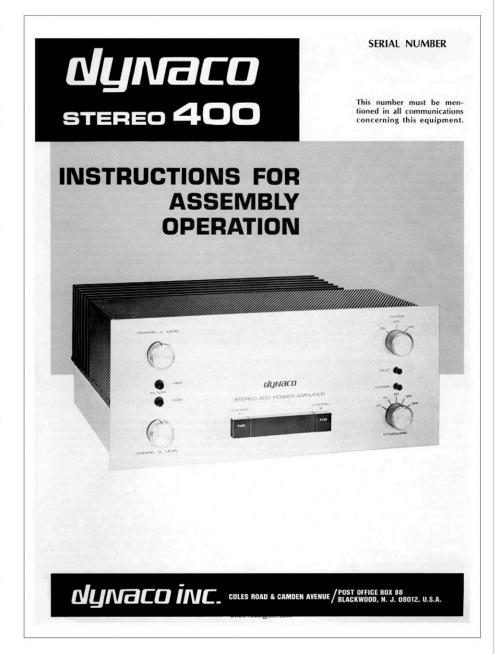

Stereo 400s in great working condition, that usually have had some degree of service work fetch upwards of $1,000 these days, while non-serviced and non-working ones can go as low as $150, which is what we paid for our example. It's also very important to stress with this amplifier, more than some of the other vintage pieces we've seen, front panels and casework for the Stereo 400is nearly nonexistant. If you take the plunge, find the cleanest one you can, and if you are having it shipped, be sure the seller knows how to pack a 53 pound amplifier (with a very thin faceplate) without damage. Budget for at least another $125-$175 in shipping.

Surprisingly, our version sounds pretty good. Initial listening is somewhat noisy, so first step will be to clean the input level controls and at least replace power supply capacitors.

Legendary Dynaco guru Frank Van Alstine says that they are no longer rebuilding the Stereo 400 because they are "a nightmare to take apart, and some of the necessary parts are no longer available."

Considering that Van Alstine's Vision SET400 stereo amplifier is a mega bargain at $1,699, this amplifier is not a tremendous value for $1,200. They still sound like 50 year old amplifiers, and you're still staring down an amplifier full of 50 year old parts that could take a dump at any time.

However, we all know that part of the lure of vintage gear is the heritage and memories that come along with it. And if that's the case, party on.

Dynaudio Emit 10 Speakers

Making small sound big.

Dynaudio.com

As a nod to Dyanaudio's Mike Manousselis, I always start Dynaudio speaker auditions with Joy Division. Cranking "Twenty Four Hours" is no audiophile track by any stretch of the imagination, but this densely packed and dynamic recording always gives a good first listen. The smallest of the Emit range barely tips the scale at $799 a pair yet deliver an incredible sonic punch. These are my new favorite small-budget monitors, and at this price, you can quickly put together a fantastic $2,000 HiFi system.

Ironically, Roon takes me to the Clash's "Career Opportunities" next. Maybe there is a ghost in the machine after all. A long string of punk and punk-ish tunes follow from Black Flag, Iggy, Patti Smith, and others, convincing me that the small Emit 10s can really rock.

Easing out of this playlist with DEVO's Q: Are We Not Men? A: We Are DEVO! produced by Brian Eno has a considerably broader sonic landscape, with a lot of random, electronic, and twinkly bits in the mix. The small Dynaudios ace this test with ease, rendering a three-dimensional image filling the 10 x 13 room in which they reside.

Tracking through some vocal-heavy cuts reveals plenty of midrange appeal as well. Jordan Zevon's "Studebaker" is particularly haunting, and you can easily hear Rickie Lee Jones breathing at the beginning of "Easy Money" from her debut album. Ok, audiophile-ish music boxes ticked.

Finishing up with some Robert Plant and Led Zeppelin with "The Rain Song" and his latest duet with Alison Krauss on Merle Haggard's "Going Where the Lonely Go" are both very engaging.

Dynaudio always builds things with an entire system in mind, accommodating two and multi-channel users, so you can use the Emit 10s as the anchor of a great small room or desktop system. Thanks to the larger bookshelf Emit 20, floor-standing Emit 30 and 50 (along with the 25C center channel), these can combine with one of Dynaudio's small subwoofers to build a killer theater system on a reasonable budget too.

Remember, this is the same country that's famous for Legos.

TONE110.017-1095

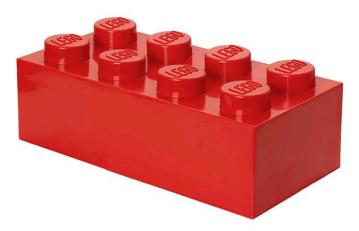

Moving the Emit's into my larger 13 x 18 living room, they produce a larger image. These small cabinets still deliver admirable bass, but I'd consider a sub here. Not having one of Dynaudio's small subs on hand, an SVS Micro 3000 was added to the living room system with excellent results. Seriously, the Emits and a small subwoofer are more than room-filling in a medium-sized room.

Finally, should you need to place these rearported speakers on an actual bookshelf or close to your walls, the included foam port plugs help the Emits to deliver a smoother bottom end.

The Emits are built around a coated, soft-dome fabric tweeter true to the Dynaudio heritage. The Emits use Dynaudio's Cerotar tweeter, and though they are assembled in China, the speaker is designed at Dynaudio's Skanderborg, Denmark facility. The same engineering team that builds every Dynaudio speaker is instrumental in the Emit's design. I currently use a pair of Dynaudio's Confidence 20 speakers and having reviewed a number of their other speakers over the last 15 years, it's clear the entire essence is here in spades.

Here's the rub. Like all Dynaudio speakers, the Emit 10s are very easy to drive, so they will pair with anything and deliver an outstanding performance, even with budget amplification. Trying a few vintage solid-state receivers, along with a couple of sub-$500 integrated amplifiers from NAD, proves these speakers are fantastic anchors to a reasonably priced system. If we stop the listening right here, the Emit 10s are off the chart good.

"No one offers a better combination of high performance, classic good looks, and functionality in a compact form factor than Nagra does with their Classic Line. When you want maximum performance in a minimal footprint, this is the way to go!"

Jeff Dorgay, Tone Audio

Enjoyable as the Emit 10s are, I wasn't prepared for how much performance they are capable of. Swapping out the budget amps for my Cary 805 SET monoblocks was amazing, and putting these $799 speakers in the context of a $30k system built around the Confidence 20s, the Emit 10s shine even brighter. Switching back and forth between the two speakers, it's easy to hear where all the engineering choices have been made - and that's a good thing. I can easily imagine these speakers in a system with a restored Dynaco Stereo 70 or any other small tube amplifier at your disposal.

The black, white, or walnut cabinets are straightforward and get the job done. As mentioned earlier, when building a speaker at this price, every dollar spent affects the outcome. It's clear that Dynaudio has chosen performance and functionality while still maintaining the efficient aesthetic that makes Danish design a benchmark. In a world flooded with sub-1,000 dollar speakers, it's easy to get lost with all the choices. And there is a lot of rubbish. Because Dynaudio is one of the few speaker manufacturers that designs and builds virtually everything in-house, they can put so much more into a budget speaker than someone merely picking from a parts bin. Having been to the factory, I assure you, Dynaudio is just as passionate about building you a great pair of speakers for $799 as they are a pair of mega floor standers for six figures. The Danes have an incredible sense of purpose.

Social media critics complaining about good sound being out of reach need go no further than Dynaudio's Emit 10s. These speakers raise the bar for what can be accomplished at this price.

Even though this issue is going live at the very end of 2021, we award the Dynaudio Emit 10s our first Exceptional Value Award of the new year a week early. They are very deserving.

The Six Acoustic York Phonostage

An exellent analog addition.

$400 sixacoustic.com

When the last name of yours truly, but when it comes to great-sounding music on vinyl and great gear to enjoy it with, well, that is a comforting constant. During these unprecedented times, the York phono preamp was released by Six Acoustic, based in Ajax, Ontario, Canada. This small Canadian audio manufacturer with over 70 combined years of audio experience in the wheelhouse offers thoughtful engineering geared for quality time in the listening chair. Six Acoustic developed their first functioning prototype in 1986, when the owner, Steve Meszienyl, helped start the company with his father. Proudly sourcing out components and fabrication locally, the York is an authentic product of great Canadian ingenuity and design. Six Acoustic originally had industrial audio applications in mind, but with a shift to the consumer Hi-Fi market, have quietly developed the D class X-1200W amp and the York to deliver clean quality sound.

In true Canadian style, the York arrives in a simple, unassuming box, not necessarily making a bold entrance with many bells and whistles. Instead, the York, in a soft matte silver finish, presents a demure size, at 16.5 cm (6.5 inches) wide, 18.3 cm (7.2 inches) deep, and 3 cm (1.2 inches) high, and weighing only 600g (1.3 lbs). It is unobtrusive enough to easily fit into any setup and at first glance, may be deceiving in its uncomplicated design and size. The front panel is clean and straightforward, with toggles for power, a knob for adjusting gain, and a small button for switching between MM and MC. The rear panel has an RCA input and output, ground lug, and an input for the wall-wart AC power supply.

A pencil-sized tool is supplied for adjusting the input loading control. DIP switches on the underside of the unit allow for an adjustment of 0 pF to 470 pF capacitance for MM cartridges and 20 to 470 ohms impedance for MC carts. The RIAA curve is the only built-in EQ setting.

Fine gain control can be achieved from the simple knob on the front panel, making a range of 36 - 52 dB for MM and 56 - 72 dB for MC available.

Changing from MM to MC requires only pushing a button. The York offers excellent sound without the sticker shock, coming in at 400 dollars. (At this second, the exchange rate between Canada and the US is close, but this is subject to change at any time.)

After a short burn-in of about 12-15 hours, I put the York to work with my reference TT, an Acoustic Solid Vintage Exclusive, fitted with a Hana ML and a stack of great vinyl featuring Canadian artists. The York is set with 0 gain at first, loaded to 470 ohms. During the first few albums, it does not take long to appreciate the York's THD + N of <0.001%, as there is absolutely no discernable extraneous noise between tracks.

However, when one of my favorites from The Tragically Hip, Road Apples went on the platter, this modest phono amp made this avid listener sit up and take notice. There is a fun, lively bounce to the percussion and bass, with full forward vocals and a clear presentation of the instruments. Moving onto some jazz tracks from a Japanese pressing of Oscar Peterson and Dizzy Gillespie, the delicate nuances in the horns and piano on "Caravan" are fulminate and exciting. There is a life-like quality, with fine details that complete the crisp warm sound. The York brought these giants of jazz right into the room.

Spinning Bruce Cockburn's album, Waiting For a Miracle, demands headphone listening.

"No reason to mince words: this is the best headphone amplifier I have ever used..."

Ken Kessler, Hi-Fi News

"It's rare that you come across something that is so totally different. It's a beautiful design, flush with fun options that make it an absolute joy to play with, and it sounds absolutely fantastic to boot!"

Dave Hanson, EnjoyTheMusic.com "...the Absolute is probably the most flexible headphone amplifier I've ever encountered..."

Grover Neville, InnerFidelity

"An absolute joy to use."
Steven Stone, HiFi+

"It does what an audiophile amplifier is supposed to do...to say it is musical is to barely scratch the surface."

Gary Alan Barker, Headphone.guru

Shanon Says.

Going back and forth between a great pair of tried and true Grado SR80s and my reference Focal Elears, every bit of warmth, separation, and detail comes to life in a big way. The controlled, delicate guitar is punchy and impactful. Listening to the track "Laughter," the full impact of the York's sound ticks all the boxes. This phonostage really shines with vocals and subtlety, something not generally accomplished at this price.

Cranking it up a bit with some vintage prog-rock, Rush's 2112 hits the platter and the York delivers. Sorry not sorry to my poor neighbours when "Temples of Syrinx" is played at near concert level. The York presents the hard-hitting drums and bass evenly, with guitar and vocals punching through smoothly. The well-balanced forward soundstage and crisp presentation makes it tough to take this classic off the turntable when it's complete.

Safe to say, I am thrilled with what the York brings to the table. While this compact phonostage has nearly all the magic inside, perhaps the next iteration could have some marks around the gain control. The smooth front panel makes it tough to reset, should you be an analog lover like me with more than one cartridge at their disposal. This is a very small point of contention, and anyone seeking a great addition to their analog front end at an approachable price will enjoy what the Six Acoustic York has to offer.

To prove just how enthusiastic we are about the York, we are awarding it one of our Exceptional Value Awards for 2021, and the #toneapproved Award as well. (Contributor Richard Colburn has purchased the review sample and has his review up on our Cartridge Dude site. Please click here if you would like to read that.

The Ortofon Concorde Century Phono Cartridge

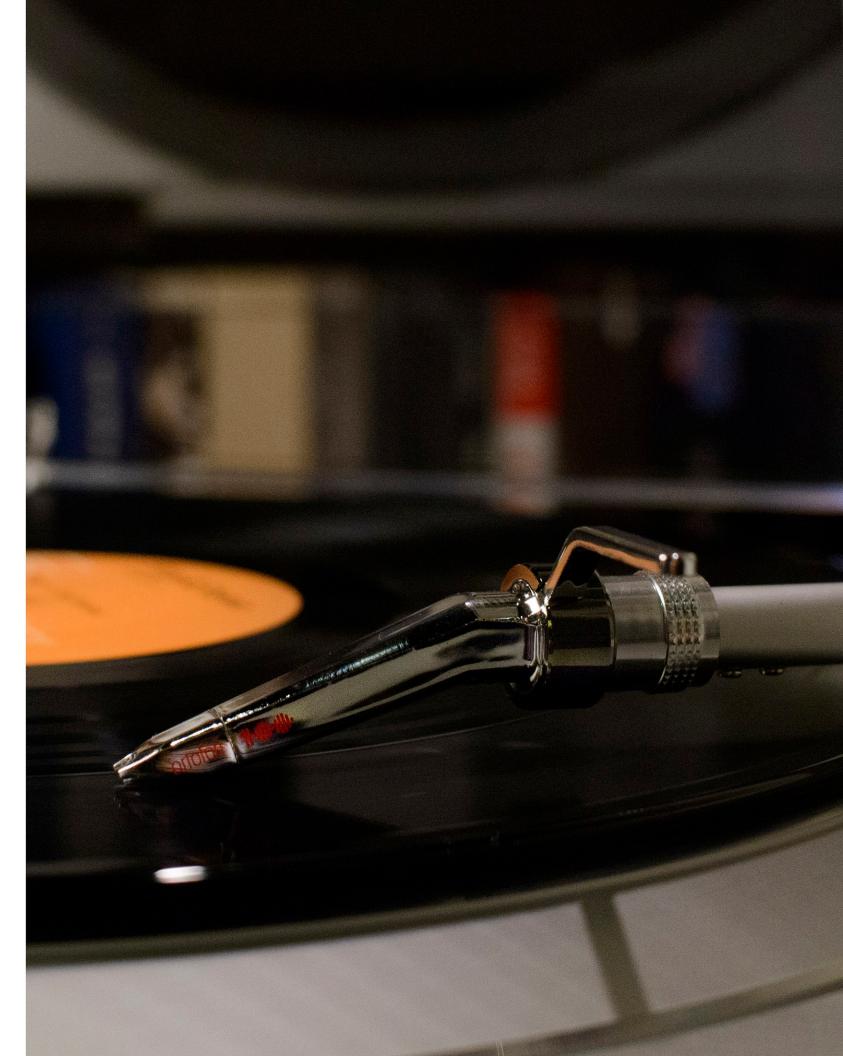

This one's not for DJ's.

40 years ago, I worked in a HiFi shop selling Technics turntables by the truckload to help finance my education. When our shop had their annual "24-hour Midnight Madness Sale," those of us with the stamina to stay on the sales floor for the entire duration made the big bucks. Though I was using Ortofon's MC20 on my Technics 1200, the original Concorde 30 was a great way to blast a fully set up 1200 out the door. People have always been set up adverse when it comes to cartridges, and the Concorde concept is the perfect solution. Yes, we've been breaking those tiny wires for decades. Thanks to the Concorde, that's not a problem.

Designed by industrial designer Jan Tragardh, the original Concorde created in 1979 was awarded the Danish Industrial Design award that year. Like the airplane with the same name, the Concorde was way ahead of its time for several reasons. In addition to being a low-mass design, it eliminated the need for wires and a headshell. The Concorde was an incredible upgrade for those of us who didn't even know what VTA was back then.

Initially, this cartridge was based on the internals from the Super OM series, utilizing similar coils and stylus assembly from the OM30. It didn't take long for the DJ community to pick up on this cartridge because the midnight madness in a club also requires quick turntable setup. Merely plugging in a new Concorde was a revelation. Responding to this, Ortofon began producing versions of the Concorde featuring higher output and more robust stylus assemblies. These cartridges remain in production today and are one of the top MM cartridge values going.

CartridgeDude

If you're sitting down for a second, reflect on this. For the 100th anniversary of the company, Ortofon decided to produce the Ortofon Century cartridge in 2018. 1000 of these were built, and there are still ample stocks of them left. Priced considerably above the DJ versions, this MM cartridge has a lower 5.5mV output, whereas the DJ versions have 6-8mV. The Concorde MkII Scratch generates 10mV, but that's another animal entirely.

The Century is an authentic HiFi cartridge with coils made of silver-plated copper wire, and a nude, fine line diamond stylus. In addition, the Century offers the highest compliance of any of the OM and Concorde cartridges. This demanded going straight to the last track of Joni Mitchell's Don Juan's Reckless Daughter. "Jericho" is infamous for inner groove distortion, and we've used several big bucks cartridges that can't handle this track. If you don't have a suitable test record, chances are a clean copy of this record is out there for about five bucks on Discogs, and it's a great test for mistracking. Think you have your cartridge setup, right? This one is the destroyer of smiles.

N eedless to say, the Century breezes right through, and even after a few minutes' reveals what an entirely musical cartridge it is. At $700, the Century is priced higher than the other Concordes, but I selfishly submit that this is Ortofon's finest MM. However, not everyone has a Technics, SME, or Ortofon arm with that connection. But if you do, this one is a treat.

With four variations on the SL-1200 theme at our disposal, initial listening begins with our latest, the SL-1500C, featuring auto lift and priced at $1,200. Fine-tuning VTA with the Analog Magik software optimizes the Century to perfection, and tracking force is double-checked with our Ortofon digital stylus force gauge. The 1.8 gram suggested tracking force is perfection. Moving through the ranks up to the top range SL-1200G and replacing the stock tonearm cable with the Blue Heaven from Nordost, the Century really shines.

If you do not have access to any high-tech tools, you can get the Century very close to optimum VTA eyeballing it. Careful, minute adjustments with multiple listening sessions will get you the rest of the way. This is the easiest thing to set up beyond a Rega cartridge on a Rega arm with their three screws. That's a good thing because it's so easy to screw up cartridge alignment, with the analog feel going down the drain in the process.

As MM cartridge performance continues to improve, it begins to overlap into MC territory. Like several other manufacturers, Ortofon makes excellent MC cartridges for less than the Century's price – but you will need a step-up device of some kind. What really makes the Concorde Century so superb is its tracking ability, dynamic range, and incredibly neutral/natural overall tonal balance. Others have said the Century has a "lively presentation," and I agree.

Listening to musical selections featuring acoustic instruments is fabulous. The Century does a fantastic job getting tone and timbre right. Acoustic guitars sound as they should, and it's easy to hear the differences between different guitars and strings when played. The attack of piano and violin are equally stunning. When mounted to the $4,000 Technics SL1200G, this combination sounds way more formidable than the price tag suggests. Much as I enjoy analog, I could live happily ever after with an SL-1210 (about $1,600 when they become available again), a Concorde Century, and that Nordost tonearm cable.

PARASOUND

JC 1+ Mono Power Amplifier Five years in development, the new JC 1+ monoblock amplifier is the ultimate achievement of Parasound and legendary designer John Curl. Mono Amplifier PARASOUND Colun Cul "...If someone whispered in my ear and said, 'you're listening to a six-figure pair of amplifiers,' I would believe them. The JC 1+ monos are that good, that refined, that musical." Jeff Dorgay, Tone Audio "This is a superb-sounding amplifier that will get the best from every loudspeaker with which it is partnered. Well done, Mr. Curl." John Atkinson, Stereophile Since 1981

When stepping up to the Nagra Classic Phono and power supply we have in for review, the capabilities of the Concorde Century become even clearer, revealing the level of texture and detail this cartridge delivers. I highly suggest anyone running a Technics as their second or third table in a cost no object system should consider this cartridge as their daily driver. You will not be disappointed.

One last word on trackability and the DJ heritage of the Concorde. Going through our crates of 45r.p.m. maxi-singles, known for their dynamics, portrays this cartridge in a rocking perspective. These records usually have more dynamics than their LP counterparts because most of the time, they've spread out the track on an entire record side and cut hot. Spinning Thomas Dolby's "May the Cube Be With You" had my six REL subwoofers pumping. However, don't forget this cartridge uses a standard 20-degree tracking angle, so don't get over-enthusiastic and start scratching!

There you have it. Few things are better in the world of audio than discovering reasonably priced sonic solutions. The Ortofon Concorde Century is a top choice for any turntable enthusiast that can use this type of cartridge mounting system or those wanting great sound that are set up adverse.

Because this one is staying, consider the Ortofon Concorde Classic #toneaudioapproved.

Better in every way!

BACKERT LABS

Preamp specialists.

We build each Backert Labs preamp by hand in Pennsylvania. Our goal: musical performances in your listening room that feel like they are happening right now.

We include luxuries such as the Elma switch from Switzerland. Fully balanced input and output via Neutrik XLR connectors. Furutech power cable inputs. All employed in highly innovative circuits. For example, most manufacturers' power supplies include significant capacitance. Our patented power supply uses almost none. Capacitors have a sound to them, which we seek to minimize.

The results: natural tone. Accurate dynamics. Correct timing. Music that is more lively, and more intimate.

Hear what they heard, when they recorded it. Feel what they felt. Like it's happening right now.

It was a weird way to spend the anniversary of 9/11, but nothing like a great concert to brighten your spirits. And TR was in perfect form, this evening when he performed Todd and Healing back to back for the first time in maybe forever.

With his current band in place, the peeled through a lot of tunes that loyal Todd fans had never heard live. The combination of a great performance, great acoustics, and with Rundgren - always a solid helping of theatrics (and costume changes) made for a memorable evening.

Masterpiece Award - 2021

his has been an interesting world to say the least.

Fortunately, what we do makes it easy to follow Angela Cardas' advice of "just stay home and listen to music.

Now that TONE enters it's 17th year, a lot of great gear has passed through these doors. In case you don't know, I take about 99% of the photos in the magazine, so I have the unique opportunity to listen to every single thing before it heads to one of our other writers.

It's given me a perspective most reviewers don't have.

This is a very enjoyable process, requiring an open mind at all times. We hand out fewer awards than any other publication for good reason; everything we review is worth your hard earned money. If it's not great, it doesn't even make it in the door.

I'm guessing you're way too busy to waste your time on mediocrity. I know I am.

This year, we had three pieces that felt a step beyond the honor of a "Product of The Year" award, and it's a long time till 2029.

So, we go forward with the Masterpiece Award. There will only be a couple every year. This year we have four things that are beyond class defining for you.

Masterpiece Award - 2021

he Bower&Wilkins Zeppelin has been on the scene for 14 years now. There are many imitators, but nothing posesses the combination of sound, style, and functionality of the Zeppelin.

We still have the first and third generation Zeppelins here, and have given a few as gifts over the years.

This unique product is a fantastic addition to any household.

alanced Audio Technology has always produced world - class vacuum tube components, but the REX 3 preamp not only eclipses everything they've done in the past, it eclipses most other preamplifers on the market at any price.

Unlike some linestages that rely on transformers to provide balanced inputs or outputs, the REX 3 is a fully balanced design from input to output.

The only drawback to all this tubey awesomeness?

A lot of tubes to replace when the big day comes. 18 in all. Start saving the day you unbox it, but once said tubes warm up, you'll be a slave to it's power, and will gladly feed it all the tubes it wants.

Don't say we didn't warn you. Prepare to have your perceptions altered in an incredibly good way.

ur Product of the Year Awards celebrate what we feel is the ultimate expression of a particular component, whether it be at a specific price point, or technological prowess.

While we have tried very hard to take more of a "concierge" approach here at TONE, trying to find what we feel are the most exciting to put on your short list, the TPOY products deliver even more.

Much as we hate to use the B-word, the gear to follow certainly represents the "best of the best" of what we've had the privilege to listen to this year.

We've completed full reviews on most of these, but a couple are still in process, with reviews to follow early in 2021.

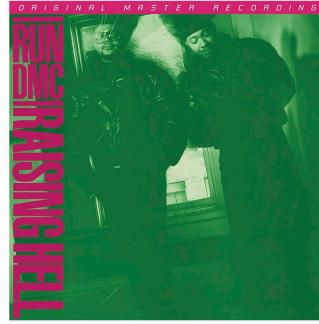

Again, we would never expect you to spend your hard earned income on something, simply because we think it's outstanding, but it is our hope that should you be looking for something in one of these categories, that you'd take the time to investigate, audition, and compare these to what you were thinking of.

Our hope is that should any of the products on the following pages fit your criteria, that upon thorough investigation, you would enjoy them as much as we have.

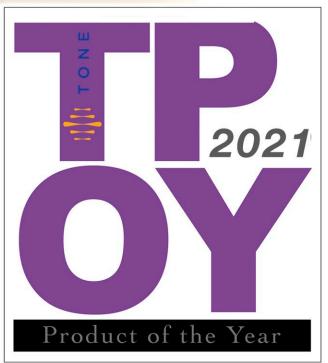

It's all about finding that special piece of gear that will take you somewhere you've never been.

All of these components pass that test.

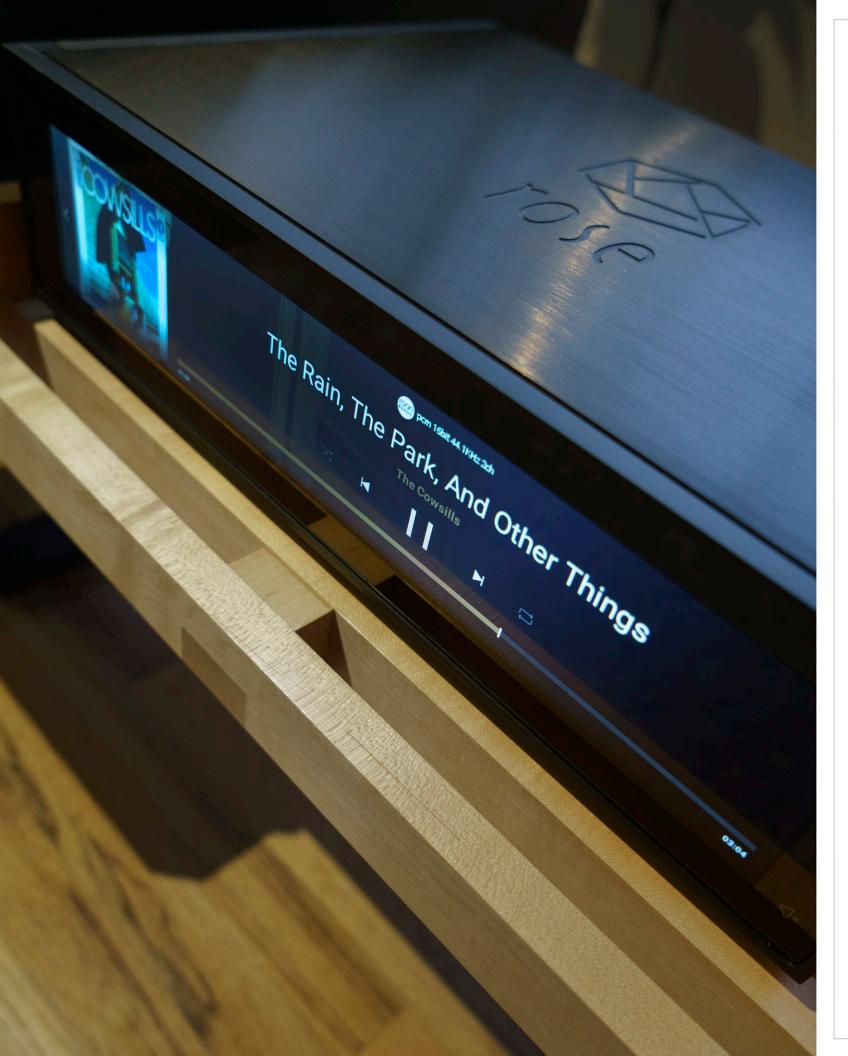

OVERALL: HiFi Rose RS150B

mofidistribution.com

We rarely make broad, bold statements, but when we do, we mean it. There's no better anchor to build a music system Hifi Rose RS150B.

If you're assembling a cost no object system, it's the perfect streamer. Should you be looking for a high-performance, minimal box content system, the RS150B features RCA and balanced XLR outputs, with every digital input you can imagine on the back panel. And... it offers a single analog input so you can add a turntable, should the analog mood strike.

DAC and line-level preamp sections are at the top of their class as well.

Best of all, the user interface is the most intuitive we've yet used, and we've been around since Sooloos 1.0 days. The RS150B is equally ground-breaking because the implementation is sheer perfection.

There is no faster way to audio excellence.

Speaker: Fink Team Kim

$12,800/pair matterhornaudio.com

These compact but powerful two-ways blend a bespoke AMT tweeter and 8-inch woofer to perfection.

With adjustments for damping and high frequencies, they can work well with nearly any amp.

Thinking of the Kims in terms of a compact, yet high performance speaker, they are tough to beat.

Digital: Naim Uniti Atom Headphone Edition

$3,290 naimaudio.com

This has been the toughest award we'ev every given, because the Naim Uniti Atom Headphone Edition excells at every function it offers. It is a superb headphone amplifier, to be sure, but because the power amplifier section from the standard Uniti Atom no longer makes demands on the power supply, it's performance as a linestage preamplifier, and digital hub needs to be heard to be believed.

With multiple digital inputs, and ROON endpoint functionality, this has to be the best compact yet high performance digital hub going.

Icing on the cake is the single analog input, so you can add a turntable to the mix. Brilliant.

Analog: Thrax Yatrus

$15,500 (without arm)

$21,000 (with Schroeder arm)

highendbyoz.com

There's always been a fairly healthy gap between good, great, and outstanding turntables. Now that we live in a world where six-figure turntables are no longer anomalous, some might ponder what it costs to have state of the art analog payback.

We submit the Thrax Yatrus as a contender for an incredibly short list of tables that get down to business for way less than a house in Scottsdale.

The direct-drive Yatrus has it all, and we respectfully submit that the synergy with the matching Schroeder arm is almost too good to belive for this price.

Beyong this award, this table is now a permanent reference here.

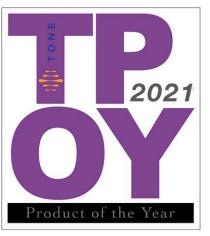

Preamplifier: Parsound Halo P6

We liked Parasound's JC1+ monoblocks so much, we bought the review samples. This one is also staying for a staffer. If there is a better deal going for a line-stage preamplifier, that includes a DAC, MM/MC phonostage, and a headphone amplifier, we aren't aware of it.

The level of performance the Halo P6 delivers would be worth the sticker price if it were just a preamplifier.

Next time you hear the internet pundits complaining, that you have to spend five-figures to get great sound, point them in this direction. It doesn't get any better.

Phono Pre: Nagra Classic

$19,750 (Classic PS $16,000 addl.)

nagraaudio.com

Nagra craftsmanship is always beautiful to behold, and the sheer efficiency by which their years of making pro gear surfaces in ease of operation and functionality.

The current Classic series builds on the past generation VPS, and the HD series components. The result is incredible.

The ability to configure both inputs as MM or MC, and adapt to mono cartridges as well as the various EQ curves allows the Classic Phono to integrate any cartridge you have in your collection.

And, the Classic PSU adds even more performance, when you are ready to go further.

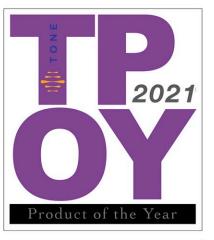

Budget Component: Rega Kyte Speakers

$795/pair

soundorg.com rega.co.uk

Many know Rega for their line of turntables, but they have been a full-line manufacturer for decades.

True to the Rega design ethos, their products all are top of their class in performance and value. The new Kyte speakers take advantage of current advances in materials technology, and offer up great sonic performance.

Whether you choose to go all Rega or not, the Kyte speakers are a great match for a compact, high-performance music system.

Power Amp: BAT Rex 3

balanced.com mofidistribution.com

We've been using various BAT amplifiers, based on the Russian 6C33C triodes for years now, with major enthusiasm. With nearly all other large-scale tube amplifiers based on more traditional EL-34s and the KT88/120/150 power tubes, these amplifiers have always had a unique voice.

The new REX 3 pays visual and sonic homage to BAT designs past, but thanks to improvements and refinements (as well as a major upgrade in casework) makes this one of the world's finest tube amplifiers.

If 80 Watts per chanel, is not enough, a mere flick of the switch makes the Rex 3 a 160 Watt, triode monoblock.

We get a lot of readers asking for a final destination, wanting high performance in a single box. The Luxman 590, and now the current AXII model is almost always the suggestion we present. Five TONE staffers, along with numerous friends and readers have purchased one of these.

It's massive current, 30Wpc class-A power amplifier can drive nearly any speakers, and the built-in MM/MC is top notch.

Add 95 years of manufacturing expertise, to execution and packaging worthy of the finest luxury items, and it adds up to an amplifier you'll probably want to spend the rest of your life with.

It's that good.

Personal Audio: ampsandsound Nautilus

$9,200 ampsandsound.com

There's no mincing words, this is one of the world's finest headphone amplifiers. Sound is one thing, and that's what we love, but the Nautilus goes way beyond good sound.

The homage paid to hifi's classic past, both in look and feel is unmistakable. It doesn't stop when you remove the bottom cover and look inside. Wanna know why those McIntosh and Marantz amps from the 60s still work today? They were carefully hand wired by people that cared.

Justin Weber produly carries on this tradition, building amplifiers that will probably still be rocking in the next century. It's also an 8Wpc SET amplifier for those of you with efficient speakers.

Finally, they are offered in super cool colors. Job done.

Subwoofer: Totem Tribe-solution

$2,200 totemacoustic.com

Totem Acoustics of Canada always excels with speakers offering equal priority to sound and aesthetics.

For someone requiring more low frequency output, but not having the ability to go in-wall, the Tribe "Solution" is appropriately named.

This slim (24 x 13-inch) cabinet is only 4 1/2 inches thick, and can be placed on is rear face, firing upwards, so you can put it anywhere.

If your tribe happens to be slightly more nomadic, this one can go anywhere.

With a pair of 8-inch woofers, and a 500 watt amplifier, (wireless option available) you can count on great bass.

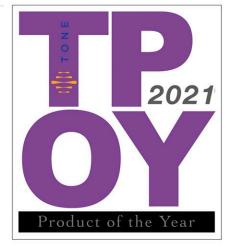

Accessory: The Degritter

We've tried a number of record cleaning machines over the last 30+ years. Some have been considerably less than the Degritter, and others more expensive.

The Degritter has been in use for the better part of this year and ticks all the boxes. It's thorough, easy to use, quiet, and offers multiple cleaning options, from the 4:30 "quick" setting, to the just over 12 minute "heavy" setting.

In addition to doing a fantastic job cleaning records, it is very quiet, efficient, and the easist one to use.

And we've tried em all.

e seek high value in everything we review, yet some things go above and beyond what is expected at any given price. Such is the nature of the Exceptional Value Awards.

The component velocity has picked up this year, despite supply chain issues. As always, there's still no shortage of great values this year.

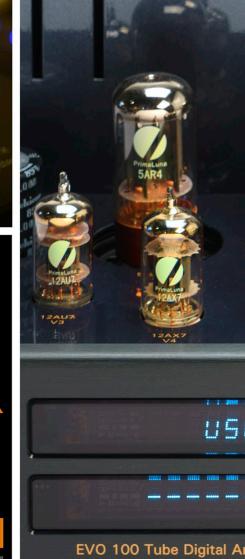

We hope that at least one or two of these manage to make it on your radar, and we thank all of the manufacturers that have sent things our way for review.

Here's to 2022!

Fine-repair: we are able to completely rebuild Neumann DST (or Lumière), Clément cartridges and most MC cartridges available. Open coils ? Stiff damper ? Broken cantilever? Musicality, Engineered

The dCS RingDAC™

From the beginning, dCS traveled a fundamentally different path. With the introduction of the 900 analog-to-digital converter in 1989, our engineers pioneered the world's first 24-bit audio processor. The new design embodied two years of intense research into an all-new approach to digital signal conversion. Critical to that design was a discrete circuit the young company called the RingDAC™.

The RingDAC[™] design began with an acknowledgment that all-digital audio hardware fell short of conveying the emotional essence of music. While identifying the deficiencies of the established standards, it became obvious the solution required a design that disassociated the noise and distortion all hardware inevitably overlays on the music signal. The RingDAC is central to our never-ending quest to unlock the limitless potential of recorded music, free from the constraints of physical hardware's finite accuracy and longevity.

For the past 30 years, dCS engineers have continued to find fresh and unique approaches to set and redefine industry standards. Still, with every advancement, the process remains the same: an agnostic inquiry into the technologies that yield quantifiable and observable results, all in the service of the music you love.

Harbeth Monitor 40.3XD

$22,500 - $24,500 (finish dependant)

These snuck in at the very end of the year...

Though it was no one's fault with supply issues being what they've been. Fortunately, We used the earlier 40.1s as reference speakers for a few years, and we are huge fans of the Harbeth brand.

Good as all the small Harbeths are, the Monitor 40.3XD is Alan Shaw's masterpiece.

Just think of your favorite Harbeth monitor with another octave of bass extension, and massive dynamic drive.

You're getting close, but you need to hear them to get it.

$9k for a 15lb preamp?!

If you want to pay $9,000 for a 15 lb preamp with mediocre parts, that's your business.

If you want to pay $4,699 for a 53 lb preamp crafted with the finest exotic parts, that's our business.

These potent two-ways dig deep.

If you've ever had the chance to hear a pair of Totems, you know how well they do on the musical fundamentals.

The Element Fire v.2s are one of the easiest speakers to drive we've ever auditioned. Much of this comes from eliminating the crossover components to the 7-inch woofer.

The result is fast, bold, and clear.

No matter what amplifier you love, the Element Fire v.2 will help it to deliver a stunning performance.

If that's not enough, these speakers are very room friendly and a snap to set up.

t's easy to get exited about new gear.
A lack of enthusiasm would be scary, don't you think?

Yet, when the initial pixie dust dims, the ultimate question is would you live with the component that you just finished waxing poetic about?

Granted some complain that audio reviewers are often granted the same industry discounts that the other people in the audio world are allowed. However, the physical act of writing the check is more often than not the great equalizer. Rarely does the discount act as a vehicle to save money. Access to a better price just means you buy the next model up.

If you walked into a record store and were informed that everything was discounted, would you buy fewer records? I know I wouldn't.

To this end, we've created the #toneaudioapproved award and hashtag out on social media - maybe you've seen it.

That means we've put our credit card on the table. It's one thing to exhaust your adjective gland in the hope of being quoted somewhere.

It's quite another to have some skin in the game. Here's the ones we bought this year.

PS: The additional benefit of actually purchasing a component, gives us the opportunity to write a follow up review in a year or so - adding additional insight.

A Truly Balanced Approach.

For over 25 years, Victor Khomenko and the BAT team have been on a mission to build components that recreate music's natural beauty. When we started the company, we found that many products use complex designs to achieve unnatural perfection. There had to be a better balance.

BAT believes in the benefits of fully-balanced circuits to maintain the purity of the original signal. We use the fewest number of gain stages possible for the shortest signal path, and we go to great lengths to custom manufacture high-quality parts that meet our sound quality and reliability standards. Whether you choose one of our solid-state or tube designs, BAT components will give your system a "breath of life" that you've never heard before!

Welcome to MINE:

We're not just crazy about music and hi-fi here at TONE. While we can put many labels on our ethos, claiming to be music lovers, audiophiles, or perhaps even qualityphiles, that doesn't even cover it. Having met so many of our readers from all over the globe, our readers are playful and inquisitive to say the least.

You've told us you like automobiles, motorcycles, fine art, bicycles, toys, cameras...Well, you get the picture. Lumping this all under a banner labeled "Style" seems too limiting. Let's face it, we're all a little selfish when it comes to our stuff.

Let's call it what it is - MINE! We'll be sharing more of our favorites as we go.

This issue's MINE section is a bit short because of the holiday season. We put together a list of fun gift ideas along with the folks at Mofi Distribution, that are still solid must-haves, no matter what time of year.

Please click here to view on the TONE site.

Thank you all again for reading and we hope you've been having a great holiday season.

DTMB Dealers That Mean Business

We've had this section at the back of TONE for some time now, and actually before we got hit with COVID, and it was easier to just pop in your favorite hifi store for a cursory visit, I was planning on an extended road trip to seek out great audio salons. I'm sorry to say that quest has been on hold for a while.

A few years later, times have changed, the landscape has changed somewhat, but the best dealers have adapted and are still thriving. Innovate or perish, as the saying goes. Most have gone to appointments only, which hasn't been all that much of a stretch, because many hifi shops had adopted this model, or at least a semi-appointment model before the current situation. Of course, stricter anti-cooties protocols have been engaged, and for the most part, customers have stayed in the game.

We've swapped a few people out here, but most of the dealers we were featuring are still doing well – we are truly glad for this. As it becomes easier and easier to travel again, I'll be back on the road seeking out more great dealers and attending events.

In the issues to come, we're also going to be featuring commentary from these dealers, telling their stories on how they've adjusted, and what, if anything they've learned and changed.

As we move into the year 2022 (which still feels weird saying) I still firmly believe the support from a great hifi dealer is essential to help you wade through the ever increasing complexity of audio, whether it be two channel, theater, or something in-between.

To recap what I've said here before: Nearly every audio system that has failed to achieve the greatness expected of it can be traced back to poor component choice and setup. I've heard a lot of systems all over the world, and it always falls back to these two factors.

The top retailers need our support now more than ever.

Engineered for Reality

Cable Technology

was founded with the unique mission of perfecting audio cables through objective listening tests.

Far more revealing

than normal cable comparisons, these tests compare cables to virtually perfect direct connections between components. Robert Harley, editor of The Absolute Sound, described this "Cable Polygraph" as, "illuminating insight into exactly how each cable affects the sound."

Technology

Cable Polygraph testing led to the DNA Helix conductor geometry (US Patent No. 8,569,627). Layered flat conductors with parallel strands prevent the 'eddy current' losses caused by twisted and solid conductors, providing superior preservation of musical detail, dimensionality and dynamics.

Materials

World's finest OCC-7N conductors and ultra-quiet Composilex 3 insulation preserve the power and delicacy of music.

TANNOY

"The Tannoy Revolution XT 8F was Robert Harley's top discovery at the 2015 Consumer Electronics Show. His first impression was as follows: 'After listening to it and looking at the real wood enclosure, I guessed the price at $7000 to $10,000. The Revolution XT's price was then revealed to be just $2600 per pair.' After living with the 8F happily for several months, I was ready to declare it a sensational entry-level loudspeaker. But I see that I need to slightly amend that statement—the only thing entry-level about it is the price. The real wood veneers and level of finish don't suggest an entry-level product, and sonically it performs to a much higher standard. I'm in total agreement with Robert's assessment: The Tannoy packs a virtuoso midrange that is competitive with speakers approaching $10k retail."

NeoClassico II

Almost done.

Britian's Yes ruled the prog world for most of the 70s, and while many gravitate to Fragile, and the monster radio single, "Roundabout," *Close to the Edg*e is the record that got played from start to finish on midnight radio AOR stations.

Tape deck and blank cassette ready?
